THIRD COUNTY INSTITUTE SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Waldo Program Announced as Claridon, Meeker Meetings End

SPEAKERS BOOKED

Montgomery Grange Play To Feature Final Meeker Entertainment

With the close of two county farmers' institutes this week, the program for the third, which will be held at Waldo Wednesday and Thursday, has been announced. The Claridon and Meeker institutes were also held this week.

At Meeker the institute draws to a close tonight with a play, "Miss ——" presented by members of the Somers grange. The cast is composed of eight persons.

This afternoon the election of officers was to be the feature of the session, followed by the two speakers who have been attending the meeting, Mrs. Lilly Cooper, of LaRue, and C. A. Wagner of Arlington. A playlet by the third and fourth grades will also be on the afternoon's program.

Morning Program

This morning Mrs Cooper and Mr Wagner also spoke to the audience. The session opened and closed with community singing under the direction of Mr. H. L. Wiley. At last night's session quite a bit of humor was furnished by the husband and hog-calling contests.

The Waldo institute will open with a short session Wednesday at 10 a. m. with C. R. Snyder, of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Foster Tyler of Alexandria, as the main speakers. Lunch will be served by the home economics department of the school.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Snyder's talk will be followed by a 10 minute discussion led by Carl Wargowsky.

An address will also be given at this session by C. L. Blackman and the discussion led by L. B. Fidler.

Wednesday night the program will open with an address by Ira C. Mar——ell of Ada, on the subject, "One Hundred and Seventy Six Bushels of Corn to the Acre and How." Mr Snyder will also talk at this session, as will John H. Clark of this city.

Speakers for Thursday

Mrs Tyler will be the only state speaker on the program Thursday morning. Thursday afternoon Mr Snyder's address will be followed by the awarding of the seed and corn show premiums. A discussion of the corn exhibits will

IN COURT BATTLE

Here is a recent photo of Dorothy Helen, the reputed nine-year-old daughter of Babe Ruth, the future of whom may be decided in court. Both the family of the child's mother and her baseball player-father are seeking to retain custody of her. Ruth is said to have admitted the child was not his and his wife's own baby.

SEVEN KNOWN DEAD IN FREAK STORMS

Scores Injured and Thousands of Dollars Property Damage Done

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Seven known dead, scores injured and thousands of dollars in property damage was the toll today of freak storms that raced across four mid-western states late yesterday.

Sections of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana bore the brunt of the tornado-like storms. Ohio suffered property damage, but so far as is known no deaths resulted in that state.

A gale of cyclonic force struck near Cape Girardeau, Mo., killing two children. Sweeping northeastward and gaining fury as it went, the twister struck the little hamlet of Maunie, Ill., where a schoolhouse and several homes were demolished. Two children and a woman were killed and a score of children were injured.

The same storm or one of its freakish offshoots raced on into Indiana, killing an aged woman at Fort Branch, Ind., injuring several others and destroying many buildings.

REAL ESTATE MEN TO SEEK NEW HEARING

C. R. Haas and E. R. Mulvaine Refused Licenses by State Board

ACTION ON COMPLAINT

Contract for Property Trade Basis of Action: No Fraud Alleged, Official Says

Carl R. Haas, local real estate broker, and E. R. Mulvaine, salesman in Haas' office, will demand a rehearing before the state real estate licensing board which refused to reissue licenses to them at a hearing in Columbus last Wednesday. The board refused to reissue a broker's license to Haas and a salesman's license to Mulvaine.

Haas stated this morning that he would fight the action of the board and would demand a rehearing of the case. Until the licenses of the two men are restored by the board they are denied the right to engage in real estate transactions.

Based on Complaint.

Action against the two men resulted from a complaint filed with the board by Harry Lewis, Fies av., a machinist in the Erie shops here. According to the complaint, Mulvaine acted as the agent for Lewis and Wooster B. Denman, Spencer st. in a proposed transfer of two properties.

According to the terms of the contract drawn by Mulvaine, Lewis was to exchange a property on Fies av. valued at $3,500, for a property owned by Denman on Spencer st. which was valued at $5,500. Lewis was to assume a mortgage of $3,800 on the Spencer st. property.

Loan Provision

The deal, however, was not to be consummated unless Lewis was able to obtain a $2,000 loan on the Fies av. property to pay on the $3,800 mortgage. This Lewis was unable to do but in the meantime had turned over a $700 note to the real estate office to be held until the transaction was completed. When Lewis was unable to obtain the loan, Haas is said to have turned the note over to Denman, who discounted it at a local bank. A land contract was also involved in the case which it is said would have required from 15 to 20 years to complete the payments.

Two local attorneys were consulted by Lewis, but after several weeks they were unable to determine the meaning of the contract, according to reports of the case. The transaction finally ended with Lewis having both the Spencer st. and Fies av. properties left on his hands.

No Fraud Charges

According to J. W. Jacoby, another Marion realtor, chairman of the state licensing board, there were no charges of fraud in the complaint filed by Lewis. In refusing to relicense Mulvaine and Haas it was the contention of the board that those engaging in the real estate business should be able to draw contracts in such a manner that those inexperienced in such transactions would not be misled.

MAN BURIED ALIVE WHEN WALL FALLS

Rescue Work Under Way at Mine Near Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Jan. 19—Rescue crews today were feverishly drilling through a 200-ton rock wall to recover the body of Paul Nick, 32, who was buried alive under a fall of rock at the Crow Hollow mine at Bradley, near here.

Nick is believed dead. He has been entombed since Thursday morning.

Three state mining inspectors are supervising the rescue work. The men are toiling in eight hour shifts. It is estimated that it will take four or five days of drilling to reach the body.

At first it was believed that Nick was trapped alive, but later authorities expressed the belief that he had been buried alive and was dead.

Rescue work to recover the body is being pushed, nevertheless. Nick, mine officials said, had been warned not to enter the part of the mine, known as the east room, in which the slide occurred.

FLAGS TRAIN

Youth Averts Wreck When Land Covers Track

POMEROY, Jan. 19 — Glen Cline is being praised today for averting a wreck of a fast New York Central train near Dysville, last night.

Hearing a loud rumble, young Cline, who was ill in bed with the flu, arose, dressed, secured a lantern and went out to investigate. He found a landslide covering the railroad tracks. Knowing the flyer was due there then, he ran along the line and flagged the train just as it was about to round a curve, a very short distance from where the rails were covered with several feet of rock and earth.

SCIOTO GOES ON FIRST RAMPAGE OF SEASON AFTER HEAVY RAIN

River Out of Banks at LaRue and Rising at Newman's; Prospect Road Closed; Bridge Washouts Reported; Richwood Isolated

Marion was greeted with one of the heaviest rainfalls this section of the state has experienced in months, Friday afternoon and night, one and one-half inches of rain falling during that time.

City streets were veritable lakes last night but all had drained this morning and no serious damage was reported except the flooding of cellars in many sections of the city.

The Scioto river went on its first rampage of the year last night when melting snow and heavy rains forced the stream over its banks. High water was reported this morning from LaRue and Prospect. The road from Newmans to Prospect was closed to traffic although water had not reached the road. Traffic was being detoured over another road.

The Whetstone river was also high, according to reports received by Cecil B. Leavens, county surveyor.

Scioto Out of Banks

The Scioto is reported to be out of its banks at LaRue. About 10 inches of water covers the Agosta-LaRue road, but traffic has not been stopped. It is expected that by night the continued rise of the Scioto will put the stream over its banks at Prospect.

Leavens reported this morning that a bridge abutment on the Conley-Thompson rd. in Big Island township had been washed out during the night.

Three temporary bridges between LaRue and Richwood are reported to have been washed out. The Watkins basketball team was unable to play its scheduled game with Raymond, last night due to a washout on a road near Marysville.

Richwood Isolated

Richwood was isolated from surrounding towns last night when water covered the roads and telephone and telegraph communications were temporarily disabled.

High water at Stratford yesterday last night forced a detour of traffic on the Columbus-Marion rd.

Just what kind of weather Marion may look forward to in the next 24 hours is a tough proposition to figure, especially by reading the prediction sent out by the United States Weather Bureau. The report reads:

Puzzling Forecast

"Rain in south portion and rain or snow in north portions tonight or Sunday. Somewhat colder tonight in east and extreme north section."

What is going to happen in the west and center sections is hard to guess. Marion being located in the central part, the city may come in for the fag end of all of these conditions.

The official forecast issued yesterday, however, predicted "decidedly colder" weather for this section Saturday night.

Yesterday the temperature soared to 58 degrees and fell back to only 30 degrees for its coldest mark last night. This was three degrees thru any time during the same day last year and five degrees colder last night.

2 KILLED AS TRAIN PLUNGES 100 FEET

Fourteen Passengers Injured in Accident Between Stony Creek, Vinemount Ont.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 19—Two trainmen were killed, another seriously injured and 14 passengers less seriously injured when the engine, baggage car and first coach of a Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo express train plunged 100 feet down an embankment between Stony Creek and Vinemount, Ont., last night, according to word received today at the road's offices here. The forward cars were derailed by a washout in the track.

The dead:

Mark L. Rickert of Hamilton, Ont., the fireman.

Thomas J. Sweeney of Hamilton, an express agent.

The engineer, Patrick J. Gant, of Hamilton, broke both legs when he jumped from the cab. He and the injured passengers were taken to the Welland, Ont., hospital.

Miraculously none of the passengers was killed.

The express was bound from Hamilton to Toronto. The wreck occurred at 8:40 p. m.

The snapping of a coupling connecting the forward cars and the rear coaches saved many passengers in the latter cars from possible death. The rear cars did not roll down the embankment.

RAVENNA MAN, WIFE SLAIN BY VISITORS

One Suspect Held While Police Are Seeking Two Others

RAVENNA, Jan. 19—Two men who entered the home of Peter Gullo 37, here last night, shook hands with him, and suddenly whipped out pistols, shooting Gullo and his wife, Lena, 40, to death, were sought by police today.

One suspect, Rocco Policcino, 40, known as the "king of Portage county bootleggers" was taken into custody. Mrs Gullo, in a dying statement, said Policcino "knows all about it."

The dying woman said she recognized one of the murderers as a man named Rocco Peri. She did not recognize the other.

Police say Policcino and Gullo were partners in operating "the Red Parrot," a notorious speakeasy here, until about four months ago when Gullo moved across the street to open a resort of his own.

WOMAN KILLED AT MANSFIELD DURING STORM

Electrocuted as She Talks Over Telephone; City Is Hard-Hit

WIND RIPS UP STATE

Little House in Madison County Blown 250 Feet; Occupant Injured

COLUMBUS, Jan. 19—In spasmodic gestures, a cyclonic wind ripped through portions of Ohio last night, leaving in its wake today one woman dead, several injured and property damage of many thousands of dollars.

The one fatality in the state occurred at Mansfield, where Mrs. Albert Stoudt was electrocuted while talking over the telephone.

Mansfield was one of the hardest hit sections of the state. Seven buildings at the state reformatory were damaged, one of them being the new dormitory, which is minus its roof today.

The B. & O. railroad was unable to operate trains in the Mansfield sector today, due to washouts at Ankeytown, Bellville and Alta.

House Blown 250 Yards

Madison county was probably the hardest hit section. Two buildings were demolished, two barns demolished and property damage of more than $25,000 done. A one room house occupied by Otto Bunston, 45, was picked up and carried 250 yards. He suffered several broken ribs. Robert Rightsell, 10, a neighbor's boy, who was also in the house, was knocked unconscious and was still in that condition today. He may die. Several miles of telephone wires were reported down.

Four horses and eight cows were killed near Ashland when the barn of C. J. Latter was demolished. His house was also unroofed.

At St Clairsville, two persons were injured when the wind shattered several windows in the common pleas court room as a night session was being held.

Marysville Hit

Cleveland reported considerable damage from flooded cellars.

Telephone poles blown down, windows shattered and trees uprooted was the damage suffered in Akron.

Later advices from Ashland county said that two children, Leslie, 11, and Lamar, 12, sons of William Kale, were slightly injured when the barn on the Kale farm was demolished. Three horses were killed.

Chimneys were blown down and trees uprooted at Marysville, and several barns in the county were destroyed by fire as a result of lightning bolts. One barn was blown several hundred feet.

Twenty-one persons at Dayton were forced to flee from their homes because of high water. Property damage was also reported from the high winds.

FUGITIVE ESCAPES IN POLICE CHASE

Findlay Jail-Breaker in Stolen Car Outdistances Local Officers

Marion police were given quite a chase yesterday afternoon when, in response to a telephone call from Findlay, they started out to apprehend an escaped prisoner.

The prisoner broke out of jail in Findlay and in a stolen Chevrolet coupe, is said to have exchanged the Chevrolet for a Stearns-Knight and started for Marion.

Arriving here he was recognized by officers who started to give chase, but the runaway had too much power and speed for the local officers. However, they kept him in sight until he started out the Kenton pk. and the officers stopped to notify Kenton police.

Continuing the chase the police found the Stearns-Knight in the ditch a few miles in the country. No trace of the prisoner was found. The machine was brought back to the city, where it is being held awaiting word from the owner.

Lindbergh is flying a Curtiss-Robbin cabin monoplane and is thought to be bound for New York but, as usual, he would give no hint as to his destination.

SAY JARDINE TO REMAIN AT HIS FARM POST

Authoritative Sources Declare Hoover Wants Secretary To Stay on Job

NOT UNEXPECTED

President-Elect and Cabinet Member Have Seen Eye-to-Eye on Problem

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—William M. Jardine, who has been a target for the farm bloc through two sessions of congress, is to carry over into the new Hoover administration as secretary of agriculture under present plans, it was learned authoritatively here today.

The matter of obtaining his present post has been discussed by the president-elect and the Kansan at several conferences, and the latter has agreed to remain, barring unforseen circumstances arising between now and March 4.

Thus it appears that two members of the present Coolidge cabinet will succeed themselves in the new administration—Jardine as head of the department of agriculture, and Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury. It is considered doubtful if any other members of the present cabinet will remain, although if Mr. Hoover runs into any difficulties in reconciling cabinet aspirations he may find it expedient to tarry on temporarily with some of the Coolidge material.

Not Unexpected

The retention of Secretary Jardine has not been altogether unexpected by close observers here. The Kansan came into the Coolidge cabinet in 1925 with Mr. Hoover's indorsement. Generally speaking, they have seen eye-to-eye on the farm problem. Particularly did they agree on the "indefinites" of the McNary-Haugen bill, which twice passed congress and twice was vetoed by Mr. Coolidge. The stinging veto messages which Mr. Coolidge sent to the capitol were based to some considerable extent upon memoranda prepared by his secretary of agriculture and his secretary of commerce.

Jardine has borne the brunt of the farm bloc's criticism for three years, because he was a most conspicuous and available target. Each session that saw the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill also saw a Jardine plan to remedy agricultural distress. It

3 OTHERS LISTED FOR CABINET JOBS

Three others were scheduled for cabinet appointments in a news story in today's issue of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The Plain Dealer's Washington correspondent, Walker S. Buel, stated that President-elect Hoover will name Walter F. Brown of Toledo, Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh, and William J. Donovan, Jr., of Buffalo.

Buel says Brown is to be attorney general, secretary of commerce or postmaster general; Mellon to continue as secretary of the treasury, and Donovan to be attorney general or secretary of war.

SENATE IN FIGHT OVER ROY O. WEST

Progressives Want Consideration of Cabinet Appointee Conducted In Public

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Leaving the new cruiser bill and the prohibition row that for two days has featured debate on the deficiency appropriations bill suspended in the air, the senate today paused to consider confirmation of the nomination of Roy O. West of Chicago as secretary of the interior.

It was slated to convene behind closed doors for a warm debate, first on whether consideration of West should be public, and after this is settled, on the fitness of the Chicago man for the post.

Already two and a half hours have been spent in futile efforts by progressives to bring the fight over West into the open. A motion of Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, to consider West in open executive session has gone down to defeat, but the progressives did not give up hope and the fight was still raging when the senate recessed yesterday.

Humanity and $1,000,000
Women Spend 52 Billions
1,000,000 tons of Paper
Income Tax Refunds

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

LN LITTAUER gives $1,000,000 to humanity."

Humanity is big. $1,000,000 is small. Mr. Littauer's gift would amount to about one sixteenth of a cent each for all human beings on earth. That shows the futility of any gift to "divide wealth."

One million, kept together, wisely used, might be useful.

But, on the whole, earth's sixteen hundred million human beings must work out their own problems. Nobody's $1,000,000 can help much.

MRS SIPPEL, head of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, says women do nine-tenths of the buying, spending about fifty-two thousand million dollars each year. This is important to advertisers.

The fact that women spend fifty-two billions a year should make every advertiser keep in the back of his head the question, "What do women think of me, whether he sells automobiles or neckties."

WHEN Seward bought Alaska for $8,000,000 he got a bargain. The Department of Agriculture says Alaska forests can yield every year, forever, 1,750,000 cords of pulpwood, enough for 1,000,000 tons of newsprint paper.

That means $50,000,000 a year at the present price, which is about what paper costs to cost.

"Vast forests of pulpwood in the Tongass National Forest are to be managed by the government for never-ending production of timber," says the report.

With tidewater transportation and plenty of water power in Alaska, the country need not depend on Canada for newsprint.

Conservative publishers may feel differently about government ownership and management when it concerns their own newsprint supply.

ANYBODY excited because the United States returns income taxes illegally assessed, or collected, may be comforted by FACTS.

All refunds and abatements made by the treasury amount to only 2¼ per cent of total receipts. Furthermore, refunds made in accordance with law, and often based on decisions equal only 24 per cent of additional income tax assessments laid and collected.

In other words for every dollar taken back by the government, or refunded on payments due, the government still has three or four dollars from individuals that did not pay enough.

The treasury is compelled to make refunds when it collects taxes illegally, or improperly. The government cannot steal, even from the Steel Trust, and cannot ignore court decisions.

As to the delay in adjustments on income tax matters, it should be remembered that in connection with big corporations it is necessary to inspect plants all over the country. Documents in one single case may involve typewriting tens of thousands of papers.

A BILL in Indiana's senate suggests "flogging for male criminals who carry weapons while committing crime."

Strikes would be "administered to the bare back, well laid on," and punishment graduated up to 60 lashes.

Why not have all criminals, operating with or without weapons, put to work for 10 or 20 years? Pay them for work, let them accumulate money, and, except in cases of murder, release them after time has convinced them that work and saving are worth while. If a man knew that crime meant 20 years' hard work against his will, he might try work of his own accord.

PHILADELPHIA experiments show that motor buses can be operated with oil in place of gasoline. A New Zealander came from the other side of the earth with the invention.

This means that the companies owning most oil in the ground may be the best oil companies. Make a memorandum of it, if you buy oil stocks.

Pleasant day in Wall Street yesterday, more than four and a quarter million shares sold. United States Steel going to a new high price, above $180. Allowing for 40 per cent distribution of stock, that would make $232 the price of stock that Andrew Carnegie once called "not even water." You can't tell how things will develop in the United States with time and attention. Don't sell short.

Figures grow rapidly. Seven New York banks and trust companies now have about six billions in deposits, equaling two-thirds of the deposits in all the banks of the United States in 1903.

China, with almost as many problems as she has inhabitants, decides to cut her army in two, leaving ONLY 715,000 fighting men to be fed by others. ONLY 40 per cent of the nation's total revenue is to be spent for military expenses.

"Keeping in touch with the industry"

ALL I know is just what I read in the papers. Well we had quite a crowd in the old County Seat. It was National Automobile Show Week. Phil always brings in a terrible lot of people. (I don't mean the people are terrible.) I just mean there is a lot of 'em. And you know one of these things is just about the most unintelligible things you ever saw in your life.

You never saw as many cars alike in your life. The cheap cars have imitated the high priced ones and the high priced ones have made cheaper models that are almost like their expensive ones, and every one of them, even the low flat radiator cap. I think I first remember it on the old big 'Locomobile.' Then I think Chrysler nailed on to it and the rest got it from him I reckon. But that is the only distinguishable feature of the whole show, is that there is no distinguishable feature, everything looks alike.

Excuse To Leave Home

You know that show is the excuse for more people to leave home and come to New York, and none of those Automobile people ever go near the show. This show is just the old Aladdin to get to New York. But I notice now that some of the wives are getting wise and are tagging along. They got wise to that old gag. I have to go to keep in touch with what is going on in the Industry.' There are too many things go in on that had no connection with 'Industry.' There is hundreds of guys that are in the 'Industry' that leave this town at the end of the Show that can tell you the price of gas that couldent tell you whether automobiles are selling by the crate or bushell.

Cars are supposed to be more roomy this year. There is hardly a one that is not listed to carry 10 passengers. They dont figure capacity in flesh any more its in 'Quarts.'

Even the Lords is bigger, I was sorry to see them change. You know the old ones had become such an institution with us that to see one all 'dolled up was kinder like seeing the Statue of Liberty standing out there with 'Step Ins' on.

Cars Cheaper

They have a lot of cheap cars now. Well they always had em. But what I mean by that they are selling them cheaper.

The big thing is still "Accessories." You price a car and he gives you a figure, it sounds pretty reasonable. Then you say. 'That includes everything?' Well no, if you want wheels on it that will come extra. You can get either wheels or runners, most people prefer wheels, but on account of us not knowing just what they might like why we make them extra. Then the bumpers, front, rear, and side and the lights. Of course you will want lights in case you might want to use the car at night. And the mirrors are extra in case you want to always see whats going on in the back seat.' 'Well just what does go with the car at the original price you quoted me?' 'Well the motor and the wool will.'

When a car gets all its accessories on, even the manufacturer couldent in an hours time dig out the part he had made.

They got copper lined radiators now that will hold wood alcohol till you get it poured into the prospective corpse.

Buys Car For Cash

There was one casualty at the show that resulted in death. Some person come up and bought a car and didnt have any to trade in, and paid cash for the whole thing. The head salesman died and they had to pour water on the others to bring em too. They had never before heard of such a transaction. I see by all their automobile statistics that they got it figured out just how many cars they will sell during the coming year. The only thing that might upset their figures is race suicide.

I had to make a speech to the Automotive Engineers Assn. This is the big society of the Industry and the birds that really furnish the base material to buy the Yachts for the Stock Holders. Can you imagine me talking to a lot of technical mechanics? It would be like asking Coolidge in his Cowboy clothes to address the Cattlemans Convention, out of the 110 million people in America there couldent possible be one that knew less about machinery. I never raised the hood of any car I ever had. If the things stopped I just get out kick it in the shins, and wait there till one of the things that are going pick me up and take me somewhere. If I raised the hood and a rabbit jumped out, I wouldent know but what he belonged in there. I drive em but I shou dont try to fix em.

Hoover is really the fellow that they should have had. But they claimed he had been heard so much over the radio lately that he was no novelty any more. He is however an engineer of some kind. He must be in Automotive Paxmeer. He certainly is not a Stationary Engineer.

Cal Travels

Well Calvin is getting quite a little traveling done here lately too. He's only got about six more weeks to do it in. I see where he is going to make some speech in Florida at some kind of a bird race affair. You know last year the slogan of the Auto Industry was to make every family a two car family. Why a family is practically destitute either of children or money if they dont have a half dozen cars. If you got growing up children. You got to have that many so there might maybe be one left for the Father in case he wanted to go out himself.

But the automobile business looks for a big turnover this year and with these better roads, faster cars and sharper curves and more oil in the crank than driving than there is in the crankcase. Why I see a great year in prospect, not only for the mechanical but the medical world.

What it means to you in driving convenience and safety

Willys-Overland is the first producer of automobiles to equip all its passenger cars and commercial vehicles with the wonderful new "Finger-Tip Control."

A single button, conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel, controls all functions of starting the motor, operating the lights and sounding the horn.

This fundamental improvement does away with all troublesome foot fumbling for the starting button. You can keep your foot always on the brake when starting or re-starting on a hill—an obvious safety advantage of major importance.

"Finger-Tip Control" also avoids changing from the comfortable driving position to reach a light switch on the dash. You can at all times keep your eyes on the road, and the hand that operates the button flashes back to the rim of the wheel in any steering emergency.

Ritzy Rosalie

A WEEK-END in the sunny land and sea is well worth an airplane trip, Rosalie thinks, and she'll fly down frequently to get away from the cold and to see summer resort fashion novelties. She's already enjoyed a swim. The turtle isn't dancing nor is he an acrobat. And he has no intention of snapping onto Roslia's finger. He's quite inanimate because he's a red rubber beach bag and dangles from her hand by silk cords fastened through his head. Less novel types include a bag of raffia embroidered in gay flowers and possessing a slide fastening, and a rubberized blue moire silk bag with an outside pocket and metal frame. Both are rubber-lined, of course.

Males Sing "Whoopee" In Fair Co-eds War on Spats

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19—A "spats" war, a verbal affair at least, has resulted between co-eds and men students at Ohio State university, following the institution of the new ankle fad on the campus recently.

"Down with spats," is the cry of the co-eds.

"We like them and we will wear them" return the collegiate males.

So it goes—the co-eds openly expressing their dislike for the fad and oft-times refusing the "walk" with a pair on the street; the men disregarding entirely the desires of the opposite sex and choosing their own style of winter attire.

"Whoopee," sing out the males," at last we have found something that the girls will not borrow from us. First they took our sweaters, our shirts and our ties, then knickers, shoes and coats, but now we are safe, safe at last—they can't wear our spats."

Second Pilgrim Holiness Edifice To Be Dedicated Sunday

COMPLETE BUILDING ON BALLENTINE AV.

Congregation Organized Under Direction of Rev. Wm. C. Bowman

START IN TENT SERVICE

New Place of Worship, Seating 300, Ready for Dedication Program

A story of great faith and a searching after the truths of the Bible is found in the story of the advancement of the Second Pilgrim Holiness church from a tent revival meeting to the new frame church with a seating capacity of 300 persons, which will be dedicated Sunday.

In July, 1928, with Miss Doretha Doble of Springfield as revivalist and musician, the Rev. William C. Bowman, an evangelist, conducted a tent revival meeting at the corner of Fairground and Greenwood sts. One hundred and thirteen came forward for prayer at this meeting.

See Need of Church

At this particular time there was no intention of organizing a church, according to the Rev. Mr. Bowman, but some of the converts felt the need of a Holiness church in the north side of the city.

Sept. 1 of the same year, the Rev. Mr. Bowman began another tent meeting at Mark st. and Ballentine av., with Miss Doble as his co-worker again. At this meeting there were 75 more at the altar for prayer.

When the revival closed, Sept. 22, an organization was perfected with 50 charter members. Since that date, there has been an addition of 11 members, making a total membership of 61.

Site Bought

This organization has resulted in the purchase of a lot where the last tent meeting was conducted, and at the present time a dignified frame edifice, seating 300 persons, marks the efforts of the small congregation.

Sunday the church will be dedicated, with the denominational superintendent, the Rev. Harry Hayes of Cincinnati, delivering the dedicatory address at 2:30. Services will also be held at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The service at 2:30 p. m. Sunday also is the opening service for the Rev. Earl Dulaney, of Ashland, Ky., and Miss Debll who will be at the church for a three weeks' revival program.

The church officials have extended an invitation to the Marion public to attend the dedication services and the revival services.

Our Homes

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV. JOHN A. CARRIKER

Pastor, Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church

THE oldest institution known to man is the family.

The home is a God given institution—not man made.

God started the race off with a home.

The best foundation that any nation can have is good homes. The surest sign of decay in any nation is the presence of forces breaking up family life. The greatest need in America, or any nation, is for those things which make for good homes.

Not the individual, but the home must be the unit of consideration in every undertaking for the betterment of a people or nation.

If we want a reformation, we must begin in the home.

If we want law-abiders, we must learn obedience in the home.

If we would be a nation of peace lovers, we must make our homes peace-loving.

If we would advance the Christian religion most effectively, we will apply it first of all to our own homes.

The home is our greatest preacher, educator, statesman and reformer.

America is no better than the homes of her people.

Let us follow faithfully the councils of God: "Honor thy father and thy mother."

"Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath; but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

"Live joyfully with the wife of thy youth."

"As is the mother so is the daughter."

"As for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah."

LOCAL PASTORS ON STATE COMMITTEES

Rev. W. H. Howard and Dr. B. L. George To Serve at Convention Next Week

The Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren church and Dr. H. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, are the only pastors from this city named on committees for the annual Ohio Pastors' convention at Memorial hall, Columbus, Jan. 21-24.

The Rev. Mr. Howard is a member of the program committee and Dr. George is a member of the committee on church administration.

Approximately 20 Marion county ministers are planning to attend the convention.

Tuesday afternoon from 3 o'clock to 4:15 the finals in the fourth annual Ohio Prince of Peace Declamation contest will be held, with Vernon Hooker of Kenton representing this district.

A well balanced and instructive program has been planned, with Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, radio preacher of New York City, as the principal speaker during the four day session.

Wednesday night a fellowship supper will be served at the Elks' home, and greetings extended by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper. Reports of the committees will be made at the sessions. A communion service will be held Thursday morning with Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus, of Ohio State university, presiding.

The conference will close with an open forum Thursday night, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman presiding.

One of the interesting feafures of the meeting will be the Fisk Jubilee Singers, a colored male quartet which has returned recently from a European tour. The quartet has appeared with the Detroit Symphony orchestra.

The two lay groups meeting in Columbus at the same time, the Ohio Laymen's convention and the second annual Ohio Conference of Church women, will meet with the pastors but twice, once in the Tuesday night world peace program and again in the communion service Thursday morning.

SAY JARDINE WILL STAY AT HIS POST

Authoritative Sources Declare Hoover Wants Secretary To Stay on Job

was usually termed the administration plan and was largely the work of Jardine and Mr Hoover

Will Stay for While

Now with a special session of the new congress at hand and called specially to deal with farm relief and tariff revision Mr Hoover has decided to await himself of the services of his erstwhile cabinet colleague

Whether Secretary Jardine has agreed to carry on indefinitely is not known but it is accounted as certain that he will stay until the new administration is fully launched on its agricultural policy which may be a year or longer Mr Hoover is anxious to have administration of the new policy under the direct supervision of its friend and sponsor Once it is working smoothly it is understood there would be no objection to Secretary Jardine retiring to accept an executive post with the association of Florida citrus growers which he had expected to do after March 4

Mr Hoover is understood to feel that Secretary Jardine has not had a fair chance to demonstrate the soundness of his agricultural policies and How The Kansan came into public life fresh from the presidency of Kansas State Agricultural college to find himself confronted at the outset with a McNary Haugen ma congress The farm bloc would listen to nothing else consequently whatever plans Secretary Jardine had never had a fair chance according to the Hoover idea

Leaves Early Monday

Mr Hoover wound up two weeks of conferences in the capital today Early Monday he leaves for Florida for rest relaxation fishing—and reflection upon the further selection of his official family He has exactly six weeks from the time of his departure for the south until he is inaugurated Four weeks of that time certainly will be spent in Florida perhaps more although he is credited with a desire to return to the capital sufficiently in advance of March 4 to permit additional conferences

Whether announcement of his cabinet will be made in Florida or after his return to Washington has not been made known but indications point to the announcement in Washington after his return

Wants Lots of Rest

Mr Hoover is going to try to obtain a lot of rest and relaxation in the South Whether he will succeed is problematical Advance reports from Miami Beach indicate the place already is filling up with those anxious to get the ear of the president elect That there will be some conferences and consultations there, is certain The extent of them depends upon Mr Hoover himself, and quite probably whether the fish are biting well.

The principal engagement on the Hoover calendar for today, his last working day in the capital was a transatlantic telephone conversation to Brussels, which is to be hooked up and broadcast throughout Belgium

The second is a gathering of Mr Hoover's war relief friends in the Belgian capital to celebrate his election to the presidency King Albert and Queen Elizabeth are to attend according to information here

The sad thought in connection with the case is that so comparatively few poor, alimony-paying husbands have a cage of wild animals to which to flee for sanctuary.

Highway Building in Mexico.

The Mexican government plans to expend $45,000,000 during the next five years on new highways to connect eight of her cities and to complete the Mexican division of the Pan-American highway from the southern border of the United States to the Guatemalan frontier, which she promises to open to traffic in 1931. This sum, together with $15,000,000 expended since 1925 on improved highways, will make a total expenditure for that purpose of $60,000,000 in nine years.

An expenditure of $45,000,000 for highways over a five year period may not appear so heavy to us of Ohio, where it has been seriously proposed to expend $150,000,000 during the next five years on a highway program, yet the Mexican expenditure, all things considered, will be greater than our own should we expend $150,000,000 as proposed.

We do not mean that the resources of our state are greater than those of all Mexico. The resources of Mexico are almost limitless, but while ours have been developed largely and turned into active wealth, the resources of Mexico are yet very largely in their natural state. The Mexican per capita expenditure is but one-seventh our proposed capita expenditure, for her population of 14,308,753 is more than double our estimated population of 6,710,000 in 1927, but on the other hand our wealth is $18,189,000,000, while that of Mexico is but $6,012,220,152, which means that our per capita wealth is six times hers and ours is very largely producing wealth while much of hers is not.

We offer the foregoing figures not for the purpose of boosting the proposed $150,000,000 highway program, which we believe far more of a burden than the people of Ohio should be asked to bear, but rather to show the earnestness of our sister republic in meeting the call for a great highway to connect the three Americas. If all the republics of Central and South America the highway is planned to traverse possess but a measure of the enthusiasm shown by Mexico for the project, it will not be long till it becomes an actuality.

Publicity and Crime.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer ran an editorial, a day or two ago, in which it commended the Rev. Dr. De Bow and was decidedly caustic in its criticism of the course of Director Barry and Chief Graul of the Forest City police department in what is being referred to up there as the De Bow matter.

The reverend doctor, it seems, sent Director Barry privately a list of places he had been told were operating in violation of the law, and named a police captain he had been assured was unduly thick with the criminal element of the city.

Dr. De Bow, it may be said, has been waging a campaign to correct conditions detrimental to Cleveland, in which he holds that vice flourishes in certain sections unmolested and that bootlegging and gambling thrive because of police indifference, if not indulgence.

Instead of holding the communication secret and acting upon it, the director made it public. The result of the publicity was that when the places mentioned in the communication were visited, nothing was found amiss. The police captain named has begun a libel proceeding and the director is using the fact that the police found nothing wrong at the places mentioned by the doctor as proof that the doctor's charges are false throughout and insists that the clergyman give the source of his information.

"Barry and Graul seem to think that their task is to discredit the preacher," says the Plain Dealer editorial, "rather than to discover the accuracy of his charges. It is a device as old as shyster practice. If you have a poor case, abuse the witnesses; if you have a very poor case, abuse them so much more. * * *

"Is that the director's idea of efficient police administration? Is it his notion that the way to determine whether the law is being violated at a given address is to publish the fact that the location is under suspicion?

"The substance of what Dr. De Bow has said in his pulpit attacks is matter of common knowledge to thousands of people. If Barry denies it, he counts on a most astonishing degree of public gullibility.

"We are not in the least impressed with the sudden activity of police subordinates in investigating and then declaring innocent places that may be under suspicion. It betokens more interest in putting the preacher in a hole than in putting law violators out of business.

"Barry is no amateur; his police are men of intelligence. They can handle the situation if they choose. Why they do not choose is a question for Barry—and for City Manager Hopkins—to answer.

"When a raid is decided on, usually following some atrocious crime or series of crimes, the police know instantly and exactly where to find the gambling, the joints, the vice addicts, the bootlegger and all the many underworld hangouts. Between raids gangland activities thrive. They thrive on police indifference. Or worse.

"The question about De Bow's charges is not where he got the information. But are they true?"

There can be hearty agreement with the Plain Dealer's condemnation of any policy which will give the criminal world advance notice of a raid or a series of raids about to be made against its members. That method for not apprehending criminals is as old as the hills, and has been followed in many cities. That is a course which permits crime and vice to flourish.

But it must not be assumed that police departments are the only agencies which frustrate justice by too much advance publicity. Often newspaper zeal to give their readers the news results the same way. Often justice is thwarted by the publication of facts which should be suppressed, and the Cleveland papers are not entirely free from this criticism. In fact, we have been amazed by disclosures we have seen in type which could hardly do other than give criminals notice of police activities against them. And what the Plain Dealer has to say in regard to publicity in the De Bow matter may be taken home by every newspaper given to offending by publishing matter which is bound to impede the course of justice, no matter how innocent it may be of that desire.

A citizen of Florida offers to sell a six-foot white alligator for $20,000. Here's a bang-up bargain for anybody longing for something unique in the way of a household pet who is willing to put up $333.33 a lineal foot to acquire it.

Some time when our general assembly has an idle moment at hand, it might be able to devise a plan looking to the removal of snow from the broad expanse of sidewalk surrounding the state house grounds. Not only visitors in the Capital City, but possibly residents of Columbus as well, would appreciate it.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith has gone into the banking business. Now if the country but knew what Mr. Coolidge is going to do after he finishes that job of whittling and had a line on Mr. Hoover's cabinet it might be able to sleep o'nights.

The supreme court of Nebraska has ruled that a citizen of Chadron, in that state, is entitled to $28,000 by way of damages for partial paralysis suffered by him as the result of being bitten by a snake while working in the round-house of the North Western railroad at that place. There's no use talking; the multiplicity of the effects of making the country dry are simply amazing.

Some friend should present a calendar to the New York columnist who writes about communing with the stars for hours from the top deck on the way over and the beauty of the flowers he viewed growing outdoors in Paris while passing through the Place Concorde.

NEW YORK'S SPRING CLEANING COMES EARLY THIS YEAR

Don't Let Disease Catch You.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the things about health that worry me, is mankind's neglect of the accepted things in medicine. When I say this, I mean preventive medicine. To tell the truth I am far less interested in curative medicine than I am in the prevention of disease.

When you are really sick, if you will recall it, almost invariably I say: "Consult your family doctor." Nobody can go far towards the curing of diseases unless a personal examination is possible. To treat an individual case of illness is the business of the trained physician who can take direct charge of the patient.

It is my particular job to keep you away from sickness. I am striving to make you live such a life that it won't be necessary to have a doctor to treat you. My doctor friends won't worry about this, because they know that very few indeed of the human family will follow the path of hygiene far enough to escape everything except the last illness.

I have told you about my old friend who was always saying: "I can resist anything except temptation." The trouble with us is that we enjoy hearing about how to live and how to avoid disease, but we can't quite come to the point of giving up practices which lead to sickness.

Am I right about this? Do you ever eat a lot more than your judgment approves. Do you rob yourself of sleep many a night knowing all the time how miserable you will be next day? Do you go out to a party in cold weather, wearing garments that are far too gauzy for winter time?

You know you do these things and worse. Why? Because you can not resist the temptation. You can resist anything except temptation.

Pride and mental desire and vanity, to say nothing more of the weaknesses of the flesh, are too much for all of us. We give in many a time, even though we know full well that the fiddler must be paid.

Are we ashamed of ourselves? Secretly we are. Now how in the world did I ever get into this frame of mind? I started out to warn you against neglecting to do the things that guard against disease.

There are certain conclusions in science that are accepted by almost all informed persons. Vaccination against small pox is one of these. Inoculations against diphtheria and typhoid fever are others.

Of course, I do not disregard the objections of a small group who insist that such preventive measures are useless and, indeed, harmful. There is no need of re-debating this question. We are not in agreement and can not be.

But, for my part, I am willing to have you go along without attending to these matters. The details I leave to the practicing physicians. It is my single effort to recall to your thought the importance of doing the things which you are confident are necessary, but which for reasons of your own you neglect to do.

Nations, if not empires, were destroyed by malaria. Not until it was found that a certain type of mosquito carried the disease, did the world know how to prevent malaria. It is practically unknown today in sections where it used to be the chief enemy of man.

It is just as foolish to neglect those measures that protect the individual against disease, as it would be to neglect the extermination of malaria which is capable of laying low a whole community.

Editorial Opinion.

THE BEAUTY OF NIAGARA.

The beauty of the "thundering waters" is to be protected and conserved. The governments of the United States and Canada, whose representatives met at Ottawa, completed an agreement to insure such purpose on January 2.

But this agreement goes farther than a consideration for the protection of the scenic beauty of the falls; it includes also provisions for the protection and conservation of their economic value from further degeneration.

The representatives of the two governments actively instrumental in composing this convention were William Phillips, American minister at the Canadian capital, and Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, who signed the document.

According to the terms of the convention there will be early construction of remedial works in the Niagara river above the falls which competent engineers have declared will preserve and perhaps improve the beauty of both the falls and the rapids.

In announcing the signing of this agreement, the department of state explained that recommendations made by the special international Niagara Falls board, composed of prominent American and Canadian engineers, created by the two governments in 1926 to make a close study of what steps should be taken jointly by the United States and Canada to preserve the falls, were to be closely followed. As there are no funds at present provided for this work, congress must pass on the entire project before it is put into operation. The proper appropriation must be obtained from the congress.

It is to be hoped that both house and senate approval may be had for this proposal. It looks to the perpetuation of one of the scenic wonders of the world and to the conservation of a power almost limitless in extent.

It is believed the proposal will find little opposition in Washington. And this is well. Such an agreement can do no other than bring closer together the already friendly two greatest sovereignties of this hemisphere.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MONEY WILL NOT DO IT.

Secretary Mellon says he does not want congress to appropriate an additional $25,000,000 for enforcement of the Volstead act, and the moderate drys in the two houses uphold the secretary's position. A reasonable sum should be set aside for dry enforcement, but the country is not going to get rid of the booze problem merely by spending a large amount of money. With prohibition conditions and sentiment as they are today, a big enforcement appropriation is as likely to do harm as good.

The big problem is not how to get funds, but how to get honest enforcement agents. More agents of the sort recently exposed in the Detroit district would be of extremely doubtful value. They would further complicate, confuse and aggravate an evil situation which already is sufficiently bad. And while, of course, we do not by any means intend to say that all enforcement agents are dishonest, because some are "straight" and do their best in the face of big odds, it is true that unless a material betterment in the quality of the enforcement personnel can be brought about, a new $25,000,000 appropriation will be a new $25,000,000 opportunity for persons of fragile honesty and not much else.

And—to go still further back—there is little hope for improvement in the enforcement personnel unless and until there is a big change in public sentiment. It is vain to expect efficient dry enforcement service while a large part of the public remains indifferent or actively hostile.—Detroit Free Press.

A Real Problem.

No one—inspired by the poem "Out Where the West Begins"—has ever written Down Where the South Begins;" and since the election it is still more difficult to find the place.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

"Very," answered Uncle Bill Bottletop. "It's liable to cause a great increase in applicants for jobs as prohibition agents."

Mrs. Pester—"There's a movement on foot to compel husbands to pay salaries to their wives the same as to any one else who works for them. Don't you think that's fair?"

Her Husband—"Eminently fair, provided husbands have the right to fire wives who prove unsatisfactory."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 19—Midtown Manhattan is becoming stuffed, like the Strasbourg goose, with skyscrapers. A mere casual inspection of the sky-line from the sidewalk develops a nice fat neck-ache. This new area of topless towers is confined largely to what is known as the Grand Central district.

One of those sharks for statistics discovers the tenants alone in the cloud-piercing strip outnumber the combined population of Cheyenne, Brownsville, Reno, Emporia and Albuquerque. In actual figures more than 60,000 people. The Woolworth building down town houses 10,000.

New York's pyschology is that of the small town. Just as a new depot will spruce up the north end of Main street, so has the Grand Central station inspired the mighty building rush about it. Shortly the tallest building in the world—the Reynolds—will be finished at Lexington avenue and Forty-Second street.

It will stand sixty-seven stories and 808 feet above the street level. The new Grand Central building spanning Park avenue is another whopper, and the Chanin building a stone's throw away rises to fifty-two stories. Next door west to the Hotel Belmont is another fifty-three-storied affair nearly completed.

Alarmists are crying the city is being overbuilt and what-will-we-do? Yet a forty-two story office building a little off the beaten path in the same neighborhood was recently filled two weeks after it was opened. And at the moment there is an unsatisfied demand for office space.

The big problem is traffic congestion. Only the floating hotel population is able to live in the Grand Central district. The actual office workers must live from five to thirty miles away, and as all arrive and depart at the same time, the result is a brow-wrinkler.

There are, for instance, three blocks on Forty-Second street where it has been found 10,000 may be accommodated on the sidewalks comfortably. Yet twice daily more than 50,000 people crowd into the same space. There is an actual record of street traffic being held up fifty-eight minutes in this zone. Two business hours and hundreds of thousands are lost daily and nothing can be done.

A popular cocktail diversion of the moment is composed of equal parts tomato juice and gin. The juice of the tomato is reputed to frustrate next morning's parade of "The Brooklyn boys" over the transom. Broadway seizes upon any panacea for the day after throb with a fervor. A few months ago it was kraut juice.

The vampire role has been supplanted by a fetching quality of wistfulness—O, so shy! In one of the cafes the other evening the 1927 model of cobra woman with a record of philandering that made tabloid editors dance in the street appeared without a single touch of make-up. She wore no jewels and was otherwise inconspicuous. Once or twice only did she look up at her escort and then demurely with a sad sweet smile. She was the first lady, incidentally, to parade the avenue with a marmoset on her shoulder several years ago. She also sported the first anklet watch. And now she's gone completely Lillian Gish-ish.

In a public dining-room the other night there appeared a distinguished dinner party. Such illustrious figures as Charles M. Schwab, Jules Bache, Felix Warburg and a sprinkling of lords, dukes and duchesses. It not only interested me no liquor was served, but that every man stopped to shake hands with Theodore, an internationally famous head waiter. Little by little we learn our multi-millionaires are just Eddie Guest folks after all.

Among liabilities listed on the bankruptcy petition of a high flying bachelor—and as Harry Bulger used to sing "No matter how high they fly they always have to light"—was a floral bill. The florist had been instructed to send orchids daily to a flame of the moment. When he forgot her, he forgot to tell the florist and the bill reached $1,340. New Time.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

We must give up the petty standards of chronology that formerly served to gauge our ideas of time. The progress of science in every direction is proving the necessity of vastly enlarging our minds along the dimension. To an intelligence trained in scientific thinking, a century is but a tick; an atom, or a time electron, and a million years hardly a molecule. "Recorded History"—that imposing bugaboo before which our fathers bowed down in worshipful awe—has become a temporal trifle, a thing which began yesterday. The records of the great nations and empires have been swept into the accelerative world of the cinema, and Babylon, Persia, Egypt, Greece, Rome are hurdling across our new mental screen with a hopping velocity which exhilerates the spectator almost to laughter as he glimpses Cyrus, Alexander and Caesar, skipping at one another's heels.

A zip has also been imparted to stars and worlds, and the astronomer, with his new measures of duration, traverses billions of years of solar and planetary evolution in an hour spinning atoms into orbs of visible brightness, whirling soap-bubble suns into massive globes that glare with temperatures raging within to millions of degrees, and bringing them down through a countless procession of ages to a stolid density where the morseless grip strings out even the unfathomed light waves as they struggle to escape.

Thus, as science ascribes greater and greater duration to the operations of nature, the imagination, to take them all in, must speed on the film, while the fascinated crowds that follow the march have to drop such trifles as years and centuries and learn to think with a cosmic grasp which lays hold of Old Time himself and dares to set his wheels spinning like an aero propeller, and hear say the vibrating like the knife-bar of a mowing machine.

We see this in the recent prolongation given to the estimated duration of geological time, where thousands of millions of years are now calmly and confidently ascribed to periods that were formerly reckoned in tens of millions at the most. We see it even more strikingly in the new estimates of the length of time that has elapsed since mankind began to assume its characteristic physical shapes and to catch the hang of its mysteriously efficient and persistently developing brain—that gift of the gods which was destined to transform a tree-climber into a star-gazer, a brute beast competing in business with gorillas into a fair-browed thinker, worthy to walk and to talk with his maker in the garden.

The wheels are humming. Science has put Time in an auto and is going back in his company to the remote scene, over the hills of the morning, where the world began, where the secrets of the ages lie in the undisturbed strata, where man can reveal his birthright, and establish his claim to immortality as the wage of his own efforts, the fruit of a God-given opportunity which was not thrown away. Let us stretch our legs and not lose step.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Don't worry, sneer, or rejoice too much about the stories you hear that churches in this day are not doing well. Church membership in this country has increased 130 per cent. since 1891, while population has increased eighty per cent. In 1850 one person in six belonged to a church, today it is one person in three. Despite the 23,000,000 motor cars in the United States, 18,000,000 telephones, and 7,000,000 radios, people still have time to join a church, and many of them even go to church. Some, indeed, pay their dues.

While we are fooling along with figures let's admit that some other things have grown besides church membership. The murder rate per 1,000 people is twice as great today as it was in 1900. In burglary, highway robbery, and other crimes we lead the civilized world.

The uncivilized world has little crime, as there are no available statistics.

The cost of maintaining prisons and similar institutions is about one-sixth of the revenue of all the states. That's one reason we pay taxes. And they are high, too. In two eastern states the cost of maintaining such institutions takes one-third of the revenue. It is said the $11,000,000,000 advanced to European nations during and after the World war is no more than the United States pays out every year in the war on crime.

And let the face of God shine through."

You ask: what is it all about? Take this quotation as a final word from today's column. The writer does not know to whom to give credit:

Cleveland Glass Company Destroyed: Four-Alarm Fire

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 — Fire, which last night destroyed the General Glass, Sash and Door Co., on the East Side here, resulted in a loss of $50,000, it was estimated today.

Four alarms were sent in and Fire Chief George Wallace directed the fight against the flames. A high wind which directed the streams of water hampered the firefighters and a heavy rain apparently had no effect on the blaze.

Tunnel Through Cascades Is Miracle of Science

Eight-Mile Bore Is Declared Longest in United States

SEATTLE, Wash.—Drilled as if by a giant's auger, the Great Northern railway's eight-mile bore through the Cascade mountains east of here has been formally opened for train operation.

Simultaneously the road's entire mountain division—a stretch of steel ribbon totaling more than 75 miles—will be metamorphosed from a steam unit into one operated solely by electricity.

Thus is Science victorious in one of the most pretentious engineering projects on the American continent. The tunnel alone cost roughly $14,000,000, but electrification and other improvements brought the total to the staggering figure of $25,000,000.

The new Cascade tunnel lifts the record in the United States from the Moffatt bore in Colorado, 6.11 miles long and is exceeded by only four other tunnels—the Simplon, St. Gothard, Loetschberg and Mount Cenis tunnels in the Alps.

The electric locomotives for hauling trains over this 75-mile stretch of mountain roadway are the most powerful of their type. They are also unique, according to engineers of the General Electric company, in that they will utilize the advantages of both alternating and direct current. Another feature is their regenerative braking. On the down-grades the motors act as generators and "regenerate" from 30 to 35 per cent of the power required to move them on the upgrade. This current is fed back through the trolley poles into the power lines, which aids other trains moving along the electrified route.

Opening of America's longest tunnel was broadcast over the radio with all of the pomp and ceremony of a championship prizefight, while notables from both here and aboard were aboard the first train to pass beneath the Cascade range.

Plymouth quality has not been changed in the least—it remains the same fine quality which has given this car an international repute for economy of operation and upkeep.

In the lowest-priced field, Plymouth is still the outstanding full-size car giving ample room for five grown-ups; it is still the only car near its price equipped with weatherproof hydraulic four-wheel brakes; it is still the one big buy at its price combining modern engineering improvements and performance with modern style and luxury.

See the Plymouth. Compare it, try to equal it among cars selling under $850—and inevitably you will rank it first and foremost in every element that determines true motor-car value. 214

Plymouth offers typical Chrysler performance, being Chrysler-engineered and including such modern improvements as weatherproof hydraulic four-wheel brakes, high-compression L-head 45 h. p. engine, rubber engine mountings, aluminum alloy pistons, torque reaction neutralizer, full pressure-feed lubrication.

Winter Driving
Hints on How to Keep a Car on the Road.

FEW car owners realize the great importance of proper lubrication of the motor car during winter months, especially when there is considerable slush and water on the pavements.

During summer months the owners form the habit of having their cars oiled and greased at certain stated intervals. During cold months this rule does not hold good, however. A slushy terrain, and during cold months this day may arrive and during a day driving under these conditions, road splash may remove a great part of lubricant from the chassis connections.

I have been frequently questioned about lubricating the steering apparatus. Most of you have probably driven downtown and parked your car. The steering apparatus was working perfectly when you left the machine, but on starting out a short time later, it was difficult to turn the wheel. This usually is a result of slush and water washing the lubricant from the pins and steering connections at the front of the car.

If left for any length of time this moisture may cause rust, especially when a cold snap follows a warm day with melting ice.

Improper lubrication always causes excessive wear, which, in the long run, contributes considerable expense to the operation of a car.

How many of you owners have had the oil changed in the transmissions and differentials of your cars this winter? I am willing to gamble that there are many of you who have not. If this has not been attended to, get out your instruction book and read what it says about these pieces of machinery. It is unnecessary for me to say more about this.

During winter months periodical inspection of all nuts and bolts on your car is essential. There should be free play in all connections and all cotter pins should be in first-class condition. If you are uncertain about these things call up your service man and ask him about them.

Alemiting Means—

Grease replaced in every Alemite Connection, Wheels Greased, Generator Oiled, Starting Motor Oiled, Door Latches Greased, Springs Sprayed with Alemite Penetrating Oil, Transmission and differential checked and brought up to level plug—in fact every working part properly lubricated.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

—BY HELEN ROWLAND—

Back-to-First Wife!

HAVE you noticed this general back-to-first-wife movement, which is gaining popularity among the men? Every day, at least one popular author or one prominent business man, divorces Number Two, in order to rush back to the arms of Number One! These returns to the ex-spouse, after a little matrimonial detour, are becoming positively faddish.

Just what this Indian summer complex is, which makes a man in the middle or late forties imagine that his wife in the early forties is too old for him and that a woman 20 years his junior would be more "on his type," is incomprehensible.

But the Indian summer detour continues to flourish and the back-to-the-first-wife movement to follow it, as the fish follows the soup. Sometimes, he is lured back to her by her remembered charms; but, more often, he is driven back to her by the disastrous experience with Number Two.

No former wife's attractions ever shine so brightly as they do when viewed through the inky darkness of a man's disillusionment with another woman.

Re-marrying the original wife is like slipping the foot out of a tight patent-leather dancing pump and into an old carpet slipper. And when a man reaches the point where he has to consider his rheumatism, his nerves and his digestion, an old wife, like an old shoe, is a comfort and a joy!

A man soon finds that changing wives, like changing your occupation, requires constant re-adjustment. It is like breaking in a new car or a new set of golf clubs all the time!

An old ex-wife knows all his tastes and peculiarities. She knows where the domestic third-rail lies—and how to step around it.

She knows how he likes his grapefruit fixed, his studs put in his shirt and his toast buttered, and enough not to ask him WHY he is late.

She knows where he left his shaving things, what he did with the shoehorn and where he put the tickets. She knows all his signals for going home or soft-pedaling or dodging a bore. She knows when he's really angry and when he's "just jumpy" and "doesn't mean it." And she knows when he's really sick and when he's just down in the mouth and wants to be left ALONE!

Oh yes, a matrimonial detour is an expensive "cure" for that Indian summer madness. But after a man has tried keeping step with the jazz-decade and discovered that his knees are a little stiff and the sap is running low in his veins, then does he long as never before for the comfortable old harness-broken wife with whom he can RELAX!

And what is more satisfactory than a returned husband with a contrite spirit, a punctured vanity and a satiated curiosity, who is content to curly up on the mat and STAY there!

Just Things

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

COMPLIMENTS

COMPLIMENTS are queer affairs and they certainly can leave you poised on the very peak of the mountain or let you drop figurative speaking with one of those dull, sickening thuds like I hope some time to hear Ronald, from the ringside seat of a prize fight, I believe, and the belief is backed up by experience, that the thing to do is pay the compliment, all in one sentence, and then change the subject. If you are the payer, by all means follow out this suggestion and if you are only trying to horn in on somebody else's, well you are just getting ready to commit suicide. As proof of the pudding this is what happened to me. I fried my skill at baking a cake and as an artist in this particular I'll I would make a good trafic cop but it looked edible and the out look was that the relatives would take a chance. Company, including lots of youngsters arrived unexpectedly and the cake loomed up as something to fill up space anyhow. After the delicious had been sampled by everyone including the dog one of the relatives ventured that it must be good the dog ate it and one of the juveniles piped up with the opinion that dogs would eat anything they saw any one else eating. Another of my early teen age relatives evinced an interest in my efforts that put butter on my bread and after expressing his own personal opinion said "you must be good, so and so has told us about your work." I could see Brisbane, Corey and some more of the folks getting worry wrinkles when he continued the conversation my saying that so and so would tell anything "why he even told us, how you could buy liquor from the policemen in ....."

"SHE WON'T START"

NOT being the driver of a car I suppose I can not appreciate to the fullest extent these lines by Charles S. Kinnison in "Round Home," but perhaps whose who are will get a kick out of them.

Of all the things aggravatin'
The worst of the worst ones by far—
I know you'll agree completely with me—
Is when you can't start the old car
You start out the day with a whistle,
A bit of a song in your heart—
But I'm here to say, it ruins your day
When the motor refuses to start.

You climb in and step on the starter
A good-natured look on your mug.
Then give 'er the gas—but shucks and alas—
You don't get so much as a chug.
And then you get just a bit anxious,
As well as a little bit sore—
You choke 'er, and then, step on 'er again,
And still she's as dead as before.

And so you keep grindin' the starter,
And then with a sickening frown,
And sore as a bear, you're sadly aware
You're running the battery down.
By now, you are rantin' and ravin'—
And soon, with a blankety-blank,
You rise to your feet, and liftin' the seat,
You snarlingly haul out the crank.

And this is the start of the picnic—
You crank and you snort and you wheeze.
You turn 'er until you're pale at the gill,
And tremble and weak at the knees.
Well, that is the end of the story—
For now I am puntin' for breath,
But had I the cuss who sold me this bus,
By golly, I'd do him to death!

...was a proud moment for Mr
...and but a moment does not
...Mr Sutherland re-
...ith grief that he had lost
...h in the train de luxe the
...e of which was not under
...ircumstances returnable and that all his appointments in London would be broken And when, in his white pajamas, he had sunk down on the soft bed and turned out the lights and lay listening to the faint, straining sound of elaborate wood work due to the quivering of the yacht as her twin propellers urged her through the placid moonlit waters of the Mediterranean—then Mr Sutherland's mood changed quickly to one of utter dismay and apprehension

The Scream

True, by the superb calm of his demeanor, and by his magnificent inactivity he would compel his enemies and captors sooner or later to explain themselves and thus to play the first revealing move in the game about to begin True his brilliant tactics must have astonished and perhaps momentarily baffled them But his predicament was none the less monstrous incredible, unthinkable He could discover absolutely no clue to the absurd nightmarish enigma of it The affair was too big to be a practical joke On the other hand if the affair was serious as it positively must be to what end had it been undertaken? His common sense forbade him to believe that he had fallen into the hands of bandits who would hold him to ransom Such adventures did not happen to big financiers—save of course, in the film studios of California Further his knowledge of character forbade him to believe that any Count Veruda had wits enough to conceive and execute the enterprise of which he Septimus, was the victim Hence Count Veruda could only be the agent of mysterious and invisible brains as gigantically bold as they were recklessly unscrupulous Mr Sutherland had sufficient wisdom to be afraid He was afraid of the mere spirited grandeur of the plot in which he found himself entangled He had not spent 50 years in the city without hearing rumors and indeed circumstantial stories of strange, nefarious deeds attempted and accomplished for the purposes of what was called Big business But he had never heard of anything at all comparable to the present prodigious matter And, he could think of none of his own financial schemes which might be prejudiced by the enforced absence of their author from London As a fact all his current schemes were completed and the last one had been definitely completed that very morning in Nerles.

Then there was the question of Miss Harriet Perkins Was she among the conspirators? She unquestionably was The people in authority knew that she was on board and they knew her name and she had answered quite calmly and obediently and shamelessly to her name Without doubt she had been employed to keep him in the yacht while the rest of the company departed With that aim she had inveigled him into the engine room and by her wily arts had held him there He had been her dupe Men had been hoodwinked by their gracious hfore and he had been hoodwinked That Harriet Perkins was a vampire was as clear as daylight to Mr Sutherland And yet Mr Sutherland would not credit it. He would not because he simply could not Harriet a vampire! Ridiculous! Harriet was the finest feminine creature he had ever seen or would see and she had not duped him Still she was plainly a vampire, an evil woman and he was her dupe So his thoughts ran round and monotonously round in his head and never stopped and therefore never reached any conclusion

The oddest thing of all was that he did not care whether Harriet was a vampire and a villainess or not She might be anything she chose provided she was the unique Harriet It was unnecessary for her to make excuses for herself He could make all the excuses for her She could not sin in his eyes Such was his principal mind But in another of his minds he perceived dispassionately what was going on in his principal mind and he was afraid he was terrified, by the wonders therein

His happiness in the thought of Harriet Perkins frightened him as much as his astounding physical predicament Awe filled him and he trembled Sleep was impossible * * * Then he woke up with a start, for sleep is never impossible His ears had heard a scream followed by an outburst of apparently hysterical laughter or sobs Harriet's scream! Harriet's laughter or sobs—perhaps the laughter or sobs of a girl overwrought by the presence of acute danger! Mr Sutherland jumped up switched on the light sprang to his scarlet dressing gown (for nothing would have induced him to appear on deck in pajamas), and opened the cabin door

MISS HARRIET PERKINS was invited by the gestures of a salient timid fair haired young man to follow him down the stairs which led to the lower deck where were the lounge and the dining saloon earlier put at the disposal of the 23 guests from the Spendrile

The young man whose austere dinner jacket had no touch of the marine swit he'd on lights as he went forward and then extinguished them behind himself and Miss Perkins For this purpose he had to pass and repass Miss Perkins several times it was rather as if they were playing a game for position she smiled at him and he smiled blushingly back She knew he was admiring her she liked him she judged him to be honest. But she could not help thinking, how odd it was that the night Vanguard should be so sparing of its electric light unless indeed it had a reason now for keeping as dark as possible

Also she wondered that her hotel name should be known there too Then she decided that in this particular she was alarming herself unnecessarily Various persons including Mr Sutherland had addressed her as Miss Perkins in the hearing of various stewards Nevertheless she was alarmed because she had other reasons for alarm

At the forward end of the lounge the young man murmured

His lordship desires the pleasure of a few minutes conversation with you madam

It seemed strange to Harriet that a mere foreign count should be referred to as 'his lordship' For herself she determined to deal very faithfully with the foreign count

'Are you his lordship's secretary' she asked the young man

One of them replied the youth and revealed a further room small but of great richness Miss Perkins announced loudly and timidly Harriet gave him a smile as he withdrew and shut the door behind her

A cigar smoking carelessly dressed gentleman of medium height with a head of very considerable size for middle girth, orbs untidy greyish hair and a welcoming almost benevolent smile sprang awkwardly out of an easy chair much too large for him and advanced to grasp Harriet's hand

She had a shock she wanted to gasp (but of course did not gasp) at the sight of this personage whom she at once recognized but had never before seen The mystery of the Vanguard seemed suddenly in some parts to be illuminated and yet in others to be further darkened She thought severely shaken

I'm right up against it I must have a policy But no policy offered itself to her questing brain

Miss Perkins said the man flashing away his cigar I believe we are Miss Perkins aren't we? He had a deep strong rough voice and a midland accent He showed some of the marks of the public school the university or the best clubs If a gentleman which had yet to be proved he was one of nature's * * * Not even a dinner jacket

I am sorry she nervously and challenging But who are you? Perhaps I am more at sea than you think

Introducing Lord Burber

The man laughed pleasantly at her simple wit

My name's Burber Lord Burber'

This was Maidie's terrible legendary husband She rather liked him while sympathizing with Maidie and resolving to stand up for Maidie with every resource at her disposal She liked his eyes with their occasional faint gleam of dangerous fun

Not the great engineer?' she exclaimed in a tone falsely tremulous assuming both awe and fearful joy It was as if she had said 'Dare I believe that I am actually in the presence of the prodigious Lord Burber'

You're flattering me Once I reckon I was a bit of an engineer

Herewith is the solution to yesterday's puzzle

If I Were A Man | If I Were A Girl

I WOULDN'T burst into profanity at the slightest provocation

I wouldn't use it as an outlet for bad temper to fill in the gaps of an inadequate vocabulary I wouldn't think it smart to swear and try to impress people with my status as a real he man by the luridness of my language

I wouldn't begin every remark with Gripes'' and punctuate every other sentence with Hell' No one objects to an occasional Damn but a steady string of swear words whether registering rage or used as a pose or merely as an unfortunate habit leaves the hearer cold and unimpressed

If I had a temper I'd learn to control it without offending others if I'd formed a bad habit I'd deliberately set out to break it and If I wanted to prove my virility I'd find some less unpleasant way of doing it

I WOULD carry my own cigarets

All that some girls know how to say is 'gimme a fag' Break out with a girl like that gives you a cramp in the right arm reaching for the cigarets all the time

I don't begrudge buying a girl a package of cigarets—two or three for that matter—but I do hate being relied for them all the time If a girl must be a chain smoker I think she ought to try buying her own cigarets and carrying them once in a while No matter what you're telling her she interrupts with 'gimme a fag'

The cigarets may be within reaching distance of her but she'll still call out 'gimme a fag' Girls like that ought to keep a package of cigarets strapped to their wrists, where they'll be handy

I've got more important things to do in life than be a cigaret feeder

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

SATURDAY It was still cold I wish it would get warm so that I could play marbles or go swimming or something A fella would want to have an overcoat on if he went swimming this kind of weather I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and went down and done all my work and when I was feeding my face and the bunch was around the stove in the kitchen waiting for me and trying to make up their minds where we would go and what we would do I said just like I would say anything

Our teacher was telling us about liquid air yesterday I thought they would all say there wasn't any such thing but my grandfather spoke up and said liquid air was certainly wonderful He said a teacup full of it in an ice box would freeze everything in it solid, and then my aunt butted in and said it would freeze a rubber ball so brittle it would break like glass and if a rose was dipped in it it could be crushed to powder and by that time all the bunch had their heads sticking through the dining room door and were taking it all in and looking surprized and when I got my hat and coat on and we all got outside Feeble said 'We aren't as brite as we thought we were, are we? No, we aren't" And we all didn't say anything but we felt just the same as she did

There was a lot of snow on the ground and we hadn't used our slays for quite a while so we got them out and went down to the hill over the pond and I took the first slide with Younise sitting on the slay in front of me. It was the most scary ride I had ever took The rain had froze on the hill and made it glassy, and then the snow had fell on that till the ice didn't show, and the minute we started it felt like we were falling out of a balloon, and we hit the pond and went across it like it wasn't there, and there was the steep railroad bankment just ahead of us, and I leaned back with all my might and as far as I could and jerked the front of the slay up so the runners wouldn't stick in the side of the bankment, and then we were going up and we went across the tracks without touching them and then I was losing on my back in the other railroad ditch and Younise was sitting on my stummick holding my slay in her arms She certainly looked surprized, and got right off of me as soon as I mentioned it We got up on the track before the bunch got there and they said we were certainly some sliders We spent the rest of the day sliding down without our slays and standing up After supper I played checkers with my grandfather and my mother said she hoped the cold would last all summer That is what a fur coat does for a woman

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Harry Underwood Gives Notice

"We'll hev to telephone the Dicky bird when we reach the city If he can he'll meet us and talk it out with us

Harry Underwood took advantage of a traffic signal set against him to turn around and talk to me When I had given up the wheel of the car to him at the little town where he had met us I had made an excuse of fatigue to give Dillian the opportunity to leave me to myself and sit with her husband in front I knew that she was anxious to tell him of Marion's return to her and I was desirous that they both been diverted by her recital that Mr Underwood's little speech to me was the first sign that he remembered I was in the car

His announcement brought me back with a jolt from the pleasant relaxed contemplation of Dillian's elated happiness in which I had been indulging and confronted me with a troublesome problem Vaguely I remembered Dicky's anger—real or pretended I could not determine which—at what he termed my lack of courtesy in neglecting to set a definite date for Edith Fairfax's promised week end visit to us Harry Underwood's calling upon Dicky's own forgetfulness had silenced him but for the time But I knew that the question was only put off and sullenly I resolved to settle the point to Dicky

Would it take you very much out of your way to go around by the magazine office? I asked

I saw Dillian lift her head quickly but she did not turn toward me Her husband's eyes however, were frankly questioning

Of course not' he said, 'if that's what you want to do

There was disapproval in his voice but I ignored it

It will be better than telephoning I said with an effect of casualness Besides I want to see Dicky a minute I must find out which week end she wants to visit us

Mr Underwood turned back to the wheel with a shrug of his broad shoulders

When you find out the lady's decision will you relay it to me' he asked My control tells me that I'll be sure to have a very important piece of business on hand that week end which will require my presence—well'—anywhere besides the farm house

Harry chided his wife but with a laugh in her voice Have you no manners

Harry's manner be reported as it is this evening I can stand most anybody but my friends and thoroughly set out to be disagreeable to I compelled to listen to the highly critical Miss Fairfax and watch her entire train Bob was bad enough when she was a sloppy art student—the Lord forgive me' with nothing but a pretty face and a sort of appealing feminine helplessness to recommend her But since she's developed this competent streak from whatever subconscious strata she had it hidden she's become absolutely insufferable Why the girls as hard and ruthless as a bootlegger I've always had the theory that these terribly mushy and helpless females have a streak like that underneath only most of 'em never wake up to the fact that they have it But she's fully aware of hers So nay nay, wife of my heart also nix nix—up to my limit one of her audience The rest of you can go as far as you like

Well probably go father' I'll plan to tell him grimly and then will you I don't imagine anybody is looking forward with any zestful anticipation to her visit'

But I could not share her belief wholly, though my heart echoed her words hopefully Did Dicky really want Edith's presence at the farm house for the week end or was he simply making a hospitable gesture?

YOUR CREDIT AS AN ASSET

Mr. J P Morgan made the statement before a Congressional investigating committee upon one occasion that CHARACTER was the prime basis for credit.

Your ability to secure a loan from your banker is your greatest asset in business success or a business statement and your ability to pay is not so essential as your inclination to pay.

Evading a financial obligation increases it many fold as you have lost an important underlying part of your credit Think twice before obligating yourself and keep the discharging of your obligation uppermost in your mind.

BERT LYTELL

BY DOROTHY HERZOG
Marion Star Staff Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (Foreword: Minniehokus, my Hi Indian guide, sends a smattering of gossip from the shore city. Seems she trailed to see a great uncle, aged 103, who lives on the Pueblo reservation, some fifty miles from Albuquerque. Her purpose in going there is as mysterious as any of her purposes).

How.

Catchum Chief Chief name of train. Leave Los Angeles six o'clock strokes.

Heap many hllooers come station: Jack Gilbert, Norman Kerry, Glenn Tryon, Tom Mix, Monte Blue. No papoose come. Hollywood papoose plenty jealous me

Get Albuquerque next night. Keep big date. Swell brave in Pueblo tribe show me whoopee time. Bime by return Hollywood.

Phyllis Haver go New York. No one say how come. Bert Lytell there. Play big show. Bert like Phil beaucoup. Phil go vacation. Come back and work M. G. M. All same have hotsy time Big Town.

Opens Here

See Lowell Sherman. Lowell open Los Angeles soon in play. Mebbe call "Four Guardsmen." Mebbe Lowell do Joe Cook and play four guardsmen like Joe play eight Hawaiians. Doris Lloy his leading squaw. Doris swell actress. One time play London stage. Come Hollywood. Get tough fillum break. She blonde and pretty. She George K. Arthur's sister-in-law. George marry her young sister. Many month ago she and George split. She go home London to mamma. George stay Hollywood alone. Live Hollywood Athletic club. Mebbe squaw get divorce Mebbe they make up. All same, she keep papoose. George no make whoopee while she gone. No papoose man. George scotch. Papoose like scotch best in bottle.

She good scout.

Gotta run. Keep date swell brave. Go ride on Mesa. Come sunset. Build fire Cook food. Come moon. Moon swell. Come midnight. Ride home under stars. Hey, hey! Sloug.

Tomorrow will see yo scribe head West again. Reports from the Coast say that while the flickers may have gone talky, the producers have gone silent. They have nothing whatsoever to say about anything Which is the most favorable sign yet evinced in this particular industry.

The hopefuls who believe motion picture production will be divided 'twixt East and West coasts, now that the talkies are being so panically celluloided, are more optimistic than serious. New York, at this pending, offers few facilities for picture making.

Belle Bennett is making speech sequences for several Tiffany-Stahl pictures in a building on Fifth av. The room allotted for these scenes are small. With the lights blazing it is a miniature purgatory.

An aged studio on Park Avenue at 134th Street has been remodeled by the R. C. A. outfit and Bob Kane is making talkies there.

Curiously enough, the stage stars with whom I talked expressed little except mild interest in the new course of the cinema. They're as wary of it as were the stage stars when the flickers were in the cradle. This despite such notables as Jeanne Eagels, Charlie King, Charlie Ruggles, et cetera, lending themselves to the current talkies.

Hie, he, as one re-take to another, why not leave flannel undies in camphor and have done with it . . . See you tomorrow —enroute to— HOLLYWOOD

Ebersole and with Arthur Johnson, pianist. The program combined sacred and secular numbers, by the ensemble, with special numbers by individuals of the group. The Glee club is composed of 30 voices.

Especial interest was centered in the Glee club's appearance because of the Galion boy, J. George Wiener who is this year a member. Although only a freshman, Wiener has taken part in all Glee club activities and is also drum major of the college band. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wiener, South Union st., and was formerly baritone in the First Reformed choir here.

The club will return to Galion Sunday and will give special sacred music at the morning service of the church.

Marion Man Gets Estate Left By Union County Resident

MARYSVILLE, Jan. 19—The will of Eveline Holden has been probated in the Union county court, in which it is stated that after all expenses are paid, her entire estate of both real and personal property is left to a nephew, Harvey Holden, Marion. The will was drawn May 27, 1897.

TERRIBLE LIFE

THIS idea of attempting to give sport fans the low down on North Central Ohio league games is becoming a dreadful bore. The writer makes a prediction and all the forces on earth including gravity stand and say no.

Four games have been played in the league this season. Three of these were definitely settled in these columns in the weekly distribution of sport scandal. And three times the writer went wrong.

It started with the Mansfield game when Harding was not given a Chinaman's chance of winning. Bucyrus came next and Ashland was all doped to beat Galion. Here's what happened: Harding beat Mansfield and lost to Bucyrus while Galion was taking the measure of Ashland. Never again.

NEEDS COOPERATION

NOW that the coaching problem is all settled at Ohio State with Sam Willaman definitely seated in the chair formerly occupied by Dr. Jack Wilce, we are wondering what attitude Columbus fans will take toward the new athletic administration.

Willaman may not have been the best choice for the position, but his success will depend upon the cooperation he obtains from Columbus fans and members of the State alumni organization. No man can produce a good team when every move he takes is criticized.

The new coach has taken a very wise step that should insure some degree of success on the gridiron. He is surrounding himself with a capable staff of assistants who are not so slow about the game.

DEMPSEY LENDS HAND

JACK DEMPSEY is leading a double life. No this is not to be a tale of some jolee bit of scandal concerning the former heavyweight champion.

While acting in the role of promoter of the Stribling-Sharkey affair in Miami Beach, Dempsey announced that he would start light training soon. He is supposed to take on the winner of the affair for the heavyweight title.

That gesture by Jack may just be a bit of ballyhoo intended to lend a little color to the fight. Dempsey seems to be doing some good work as Madison Square Garden's promoter and it wouldn't be surprising if he lands the job. It all depends on the success of the Miami Beach bout.

POOR SHOOTING IS FATAL TO LOCALS IN N. C. O. CONTEST

Monnett Scores Eight Points To Give Team Victory

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

TWO and two still make four no matter how you figure but it takes more than manipulation of digits to place Harding on top of the North Central Ohio league today. In fact Bucyrus leaves all mathematics to the wise eggs with nothing else to do and concentrates on flipping balls through baskets. So much so that the Crawford county school gave championship aspirations of the Red and Black basketeers a left jab to the solar plexus last night and won a basketball game, 25 to 23.

Masters of black art brag about their many tricks but Bucyrus knew but one and that will. At least it was enough to topple one of the outstanding favorites of the N. C. O league from its perch on top of the standings.

Own Fault

Harding has no one to blame for its defeat but itself. The game was won and lost in the last half when Bucyrus ran wild to score 11 points to Harding's six. Marion had all kinds of chances to place the game on ice—figuratively speaking for it must have been water last night—but passed up what should have been easy counters at critical points of the contest.

Harding looked bad in the first half. Its team work was ragged and passing wild. A better showing in the opening periods might have changed the outcome of the game. In the final half Harding looked much better but so did Bucyrus.

Both teams were evenly matched in scoring power. Eight field goals were scored by each quintet and Bucyrus won on fouls. The locals scored seven free throws while the victors chalked up nine single counters. Marion missed five free chances for buckets while Bucyrus dropped six.

Although Monnett was held below his usual average of not less than 10 points, he managed to lead his team in scoring gathering eight counters from two baskets and four fouls. Baker counted seven points.

Harding's scoring honors rested between Gillis and McAninch. Both counted three buckets and a free throw. Walker was good for five points and Roush three.

Lead at Start

At the first quarter Bucyrus held the lead, 9 to 7, while at the half Harding was on the long end of a 17 to 14 score. A scoring spree in the third frame put Bucyrus back into the lead with a 22 to 19 count.

Just what caused Marion's defeat would be hard to say. The team did not put up the brand of basketball that it exhibited at Mansfield and its basket shooting was off. While the locals were missing short shots, their long range attempts were just about as successful.

Taylor started the scoring in the first period with two free throws on Castner's foul. A long one by McAninch tied the score and Gillis counted under the basket. Baker tied the score and split on two free throws from Roush's foul. McAninch took advantage of Baker's foul to score one point. Lerch and Monnett each counted while Castner missed a free throw. McAninch shortened the gap with a bucket.

Overcomes Lead

Gillis looped one and Monnett countered with two free throws as the second quarter opened. Baker looped a goal and Walker scored one point out of three free throws. Gillis scored under the goal and Roush followed with three points from a basket and a foul. McAninch's shot was good and Monnett chalked up a one pointer.

Walker added a bucket to Harding's advantage as the last half started. A double foul on Castner and Lerch resulted in Bucyrus gaining one point. Monnett and Taylor scored three points and Lerch missed a free throw. Lerch and Monnett each counted a basket and Castner scored a free throw.

Bucyrus started stalling in the final quarter holding a small lead. Taylor counted on McAninch's foul and Baker marked up two more points. Gillis scored on a foul and McAnich missed a free shot. Lockwood missed a foul and Walker scored two when Lerch left the game on four personals. The game ended with Taylor missing a free throw given by Lockwood.

LOMSKI WINS

But Braddock's Showing So Impressive He Need Not Fear

NEW YORK, Jan. 19— Though experience, the ability to rate himself along and a strong finish gave Leo Lomski, blond Aberdeen lightheavyweight, a decision over the stalwart James J. Braddock at Madison Square Garden last night, the result was so close and Braddock's showing so impressive that the young Jerseyman need not be discouraged over his defeat by the smartest boxer he has yet encountered in his comparatively brief career.

Braddock will be a heavyweight in another year. He has the frame work and the hitting power, but was not geared up to the pace that Lomski set for him in the intermediate rounds, although he started and finished well.

THREE SIGN ON LINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—With the receipt of the signed contracts of Shortstop Travis Jackson and Pitchers Dutch Henry and Carl Mays, all but 11 of the 35 players on the New York Giants were in line today.

MARTEL and Waldo are still in a deadlock for first place in the east section of the county basketball league after last night's play. Waldo had little trouble in defeating the Pleasant cagers in his game played at the Pleasant school, winning 22 to 13. Weiss, Pleasant center, led both teams with seven points. Gerfen was high for the winners with three fielders.

Martel expected to take its fifth straight win at the expense of the weak Caledonia five, saw its chance go glimmering away when the contest was postponed indefinitely. The postponement was due to the death of Mrs. A. C. Etenfield, daughter of M. D. Shumaker, superintendent of the Caledonia schools.

In the other game in the East section, Kirkpatrick handed the helpless Claridon quintet its fifth consecutive setback of the season. The final score was 46 to 14. The losers showed some improvement over the 93-20 walloping they took from Martel last week.

In the west section, while the leading Green Camp five was playing a non-league team, Morral kept the pace right by handing the lowly Agosta five an artistic 17 to 21 trimming. A. Brown led both teams with his total of 14 points.

Prospect, lead by Sites and Herr, who scored 14 points each, treated the LaRue cagers to a fine exhibition of basket shooting winning 44-18. Free toss, LaRue, forward, was the only one to profit from the lesson, sinking five field goals. The LaRue five has yet to win a league game, while Prospect is resting in third place with two games won and three lost.

GREEN CAMP FIVES DEFEAT OSTRANDER

Boys Given Tough Opposition, but Win by 26-17 Score

Green Camp high school cagers, not being scheduled in the county league, stepped outside and tangled with the Ostrander boys and girls teams, last night on the Green Camp floor. The Marion county outfits won both games, although it took all of Coach Lovett's strategy to pull the boys' game out of the fire, his team emerging on the long end of a 26-17 score. The Green Camp girls had little difficulty in winning 30 to 9.

The boys' game was reported to be one of the fastest ever played on the Green Camp court, the Big Blue staging a comeback after trailing 12 to 10 at the half. The Ostrander team held Porter, Green Camp star, to four field goals but Long and Rush broke loose to score seven points each. Rush played one of the best defensive games of his career in the second half. Smart led the losers with eight points.

The Green Camp girls' team was conducted to victory on the scoring of Porter who tallied 20 points. It was a large evening for the Porter family. The Green Camp team looked better than they have at any time this season.

ST. MARY'S CHALKS UP SECOND VICTORY IN FAST GAME HERE

Marion Cagers Come Back After Trailing in First Period

BY BOB ELLIOTT
Marion Star Sports Staff

FLASHING a powerful second half offensive after trailing in the opening round, 5 to 3, Marion St. Mary's cagers won their second interscholastic tilt of the season from Fostoria St. Wendelins last night in Star auditorium, 19 to 11.

The local Saints played a flawless offensive game all through the first half but came back in the final two periods to sweep the visitors off their feet.

Gunder, Marion center, started the trouble in the first part of the second half when he sank two short shots. Kelly and Gorsuch followed with two more dribble-in shots and then Baltenger sank his only fielder of the game from way out to give the Marion Irish 13 to 5 lead, which they never relinquished.

Quarter: 1-0

The two teams battled for the greater part of the first quarter before Gorsuch registered the first point of the game on Krupp's foul. The quarter ended 1 to 0 in favor of the local Saints.

Krupp, the only visitor to show any scoring ability, put his team into the lead when he took a long pass and sank a short shot. Gorsuch fouled him as he was dribbling in and Krupp made both fouls to raise his team's total to 5 points. Gunder made his first fielder to make the score 5-3 at half-time.

St Mary's two pointers at the start of the third period were followed by Krupp's field goal making the score 13 to 7. Gorsuch sank a beauty from the corner as the third period ended.

Locals Get Active

At the start of the final quarter, Kelly took a long pass for another bucket and Gorsuch rang the bell with side shot. Omler and Krupp accounted for the remaining points of the visitors on a fielder and two fouls.

Fostoria used the Meanwell system of offense with its puzzling criss-cross, but it evidently puzzled nobody but the St. Wendelins five. The local Irish guards broke up pass after pass and messed up all of the losers' attempts to get in under the basket.

The St. Mary's cagers had tough luck on their shots in the first half. They were following in on all their shots but the ball was falling outside the rim. Frye and Gunder both blew short shots in the first part of the game.

Krupp High Man

Krupp, Fostoria forward, was high man of the game with eight points, while Gorsuch, local guard, lead St. Mary's with seven points. Gunder was right behind him with three field goals. Fredericks and Omler were the only other Fostoria cagers to score making three fouls. Kelly and Baltenger registered the winners last six points on three field goals.

Harding High Still Has Chance To Grab Pennant

GLANCING over the wreckage of the North Central Ohio league after last night's encounters on the basketball court, but little solace can be found for the beating handed Harding over at Bucyrus.

There is one ray of hope penetrating the cloud of gloom that has settled over the Harding camp. A slim chance for a Harding championship still remains. After what occurred during the football season it would not be the least bit surprising to see the Red and Black flying at the top of the basketball standings.

Here's what could happen. If Ashland beats Mansfield, Bucyrus and Shelby; Mansfield beats Bucyrus, Galion and Shelby; Bucyrus beats Shelby and Galion, and Marion wins the rest of its games then Harding would win the championship. The standings at the finish would read as follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Harding	4	1	800
Mansfield	3	2	600
Bucyrus	3	2	600
Ashland	3	2	600
Galion	2	3	400
Shelby	0	5	000

"If" plays a very prominent part in the above statistics. But it goes to show that on paper Harding still has a chance. Many other combinations could be worked out giving Harding first place honors provided it does not lose any more games.

Morral's high scoring girls' team ran rough shod over the Agosta "femmes" in their game played last night at Morral, winning 60 to 13. It was the Morral team's fifth straight victory and gives them a good start on its quest for titular honors. Heller, Morral forward, who scored 26 points last week duplicated the feat against the Agosta team. She was given considerable aid by Warner and Washburn who scored 21 and 18 points respectively. Artz was high for the losers with seven points.

In the other game in the west section, the Prospect lassies, led by Shuppurr, who scored 19 points, dropped the LaRue cagers by a score of 37 to 16. The win raised the Prospect team to second place in the standings. LaRue went to third place with its record of one game won and two lost. Green Camp, playing a non league game, and Agosta have yet to capture a league tilt.

In the other section of the county, Kirkpatrick stayed a half a game ahead of the Pleasant team when both copped their last night's contests. The league leaders playing away from home, won from the fourth place Claridon team, 25 to 12. It was the Claridon team's second straight setback after an early season splurge.

Pleasant, playing on their home court, stopped the Waldo cagers dead, winning 21 to 10. The third quarter was the only time the Waldo team showed up to an advantage, outscoring the winners 6 to 1. Court, led both teams with five field goals. The Waldo team has lost three straight.

The Caledonia-Martel game was postponed.

COACH EATON'S FIVE PULLS SURPRISE ON 24-18 LEAGUE WIN

Mackey High Scorer of Game with 13 Counters; Second Victory

(Star Staff Special)

GALION, Jan. 19—Galion high school cagers continued their winning streak in the North Central Ohio league here last night by defeating the highly touted Ashland quintet, 24 to 18.

The contest was the second league victory for the locals. Galion opened its N. C. O season by beating Shelby. The team at the present is heading the loop standings.

Coach Dave Eaton started a revamped lineup in the game that showed decided improvement over the one that lost to Bucyrus last week in a non-league tilt.

Mackey was the main factor in Ashland's defeat, scoring 13 points from six field goals and a foul. J. Callender contributed eight points.

Paxton, Ashland, developed into a potential challenger for scoring honors in the league when he counted 11 points in his opening game. Ryholp scored five points for the losers.

The contest was exceptionally close throughout with the lead constantly changing. It was the fine work of Mackey that pulled the game out of the fire for the locals.

BIG TEN BATTLES

Purdue and Indiana Ready for Fight Tonight

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Competition for the Western conference basketball championship will be resumed in four different battle zones tonight. They line up as follows:

Iowa at Northwestern.
Purdue at Indiana.
Chicago at Illinois.
Minnesota at Wisconsin.

Michigan, as yet undefeated, and Ohio State, twice beaten, have a rest from conference competition tonight. Michigan, therefore, is sure of going into the new week still in first place. Whether the Wolverines will stand alone or continue to share the top berth with Purdue depends on the outcome of tonight's "all-Indiana" game.

CANZONERI KAYOES ARMANDO SANTIAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, today was pointed for the junior lightweight crown following his sensational knockout victory over Armando Santiago, the Cuban, in the feature bout of Jim Mullen's all-star show at the Coliseum last night.

Canzoneri finished his dusky foe with a distressing body attack over a span of five rounds, the knockout coming when the New York Italian sank a right uppercut over the Cuban's heart. Santiago crumpled to the floor. He tried to rise, but his strength was gone.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—The "big move" in United States Steel stock, which has electrified the financial district for the past week, swung into action with the opening of the market today. A block of 1,000 shares of steel sold at 182 after which the stock was excitedly bid up to 181, covering a gain of nearly 20 points for the week.

Bulls in the industrial stocks look at the new movement in steel common as the biggest kind of a boost for "their side" and a sure indication of a fine melon to be cut for the stockholders at the next directors' meeting. The bears point out that "Steel" is the last of the speculative favorites to go up in a big bull campaign, and hail this move as the "dying gasp" of the 1928-29 bull market. Between the two viewpoints there is plenty of middle ground.

Most of the steel, copper, lead and specialty stocks which participated in the vigorous advance of the week were ready to perform for the benefit of the bulls at the beginning of today's short session of the market. Vanadium Steel marched up boldly to 113½ for a new gain of about two points; St. Joseph lead was boosted into new high ground at 90 and International Nickel, new stock, sailed along to new high ground at 66½.

Rock Island led the move in the high-class rail shares, with an advance of three points to 138, and new life was injected into National Cash Register by a burst of buying which carried the price of the stock above 108. There was also another outburst in Anaconda, the wonder stock of the copper list which boosted that stock to 122, for a gain of nearly three points.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 19—Grain prices recorded further sharp advances in an active session on the local exchange yesterday. Sentiment grew more bullish as prices rose.

Corn continued to lead the advance. A sharply higher opening brought heavy profit-taking sales, but these were readily absorbed after a slight recession, and prices advanced easily into new high ground for the crop. Further unfavorable news from the Argentine and heavy clearances were factors behind the purchasing.

Short covering, strength in corn which led to undoing of spreads with that cereal, heavy clearances and fears of crop damage made for a strong wheat market. Prices rose to the highest levels since November and July went to a new high on the crop.

Oats Take Climb

For the first time on the recent upturn, the oats market made real response to the bullish enthusiasm, and prices kept pace with those of corn during the session. As in corn, all options o fonts went to new high prices for the crop.

At the close corn showed net price gains of 1⅝@2¼c, with the March 1.05⅝; May $1 02¾, and July $1.01¾. Net advances in wheat were 1⅜@1⅝c, with the March at $1.21⅞; May $1.25¼ and July $1.27⅛. Oats were 1½@2½c higher, and rye was up ⅞c

One of the day's items of news construed as impressively bullish was the report by Bradstreet's weekly North American clearances. Despite the talk of flat export demand that has prevailed clearances of wheat and flour totaled 11,115,000 bu., compared with 9,937,000 bu. a week ago and 10,869,000 bu. a year ago. Corn clearances were 2,250,000 bu. against 3,100,000 bu. a week ago and 302,000 bu. a year ago.

Total clearances of wheat for the season are now 310,520,000, compared with 287,552,000 bu. a year ago. Corn clearances total 13,881,000 bu., against 2,058,000 bu. a year ago

Numerous reports of damage to wheat by freezing and thawing weather were responsible for purchases of the July. Houses with eastern connections were fair buyers of that option. Good buying of the March and May continued despite the easiness at Liverpool, which closed ¼@½c higher. Winnipeg, however, made good response to the local upturn, finishing 1@1½c up.

Argentine News Bullish

Argentine news continued the main incentive in corn trading. Broomhall stated that conditions are now such that heavy downpours will be needed.

A local house received word from its correspondent which indicated that the heaviest damage was being done in the sections where acreage is largest.

Nevertheless, on the early advance it was said that some of the leading buyers on the past week's upturn were heavy profit takers. However, it was also said that some of the bears who had remained fairly consistently in that frame of mind were also heavy buyers.

The late advance to new high levels brought increaser country offerings, with bookings of 110,000 bu., but outside markets continued to report an excellent demand for all arrivals.

Good commission house buying which spread into the oats market was cited as the reason for the sudden sharp advance in the cereal.

In the cash market wheat was 1@2c higher; corn unchanged to 2c up; oats ½@1c higher; rye strong; and barley steady.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 10; corn, 233; oats, 42; rye, 5; barley, 12.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN MARION MARKET

Produce and Meat Prices Hold at Even Trend During Week

The grocery, fruit and meat market in Marion closes another extremely steady week today.

No radical price changes have been made in local market places this week, a few cents being added here and a few cents being taken away from the price of something else. On no commodity has the variance of price exceeded three to five cents.

One of the more important changes this week was the advance in price of Michigan potatoes from 25 to 28 cents a peck, going three cents higher than the home-grown variety.

The other changes of the week were in the fancy grocery line with meats remaining at last week's quotations.

Grover C. Snyder, Out As Highway Official, Will Go Into Contracting Business

Succeeded by Painesville Man as Chief of Road Maintenance Bureau; W. E. Weston and C. C. Caldwell Considered for Appointments

One Marion man, Grover C. Snyder, is in the list of Democratic office-holders retired as the result of appointment of Republicans for state highway department posts announced at Columbus today by Robert N. Wnid, new highway director in the Cooper administration.

Snyder, who lives at 193 Silver st., will be succeeded as deputy engineer of maintenance by Clyde C. Hadden, of Painesville.

Snyder is expected to remain with the highway department until Feb. 1, when he will become a partner in the U. S. Construction Co., a road contracting concern with headquarters in Upper Sandusky. It is one of the leading companies of its kind in this section of the state. Snyder will remain a resident of Marion.

Weston Considered

Coincidental with announcement of Snyder's appointment today, it was learned that W. E. Weston, former Marion county surveyor, was one of the men seriously considered as successor to Snyder. Possibility that he may get another appointment was indicated.

Clyde C. Caldwell, deputy surveyor of Marion county, is in the list of men being considered for Central Ohio division engineer of the highway department, according to reports. L. H. Wisman, the present division engineer is still on the job. As he is a Democrat, it is practically certain that he will be retired eventually.

Wisman, who is a former county surveyor from Hancock county, was made division engineer a year ago. He succeeded Snyder when the latter was placed in charge of the state bureau of road maintenance.

Snyder's Official Record

Snyder served four years as division engineer prior to this year as maintenance bureau chief.

Prior to that he served four years as deputy county surveyor in Marion county under W. E. Weston, a Republican, and two years under L. K. Warner, a Democrat. His home originally was in Upper Sandusky, where he was connected with the Wyandot county surveyor's office.

The Central Ohio division, over which Snyder formerly had supervision, and which may be in charge of Caldwell later, comprises eight counties, extending from Wyandot on the north to Franklin on the south, Licking on the east to Clark on the west.

Other appointments announced at Columbus today include:

John F. Galliher, Maumee, to succeed M. L. Henahan, Toledo, as division engineer, highway district No. 2, Toledo.

Harvey F. Brown, Steubenville, to succeed Edward Stingel, New Philadelphia, as division engineer of District 11 at New Philadelphia.

Fred B. Shusbaugh, St. Louisville, Licking county, to succeed William C. Hineman, Columbus, as purchasing agent in the highway department.

Knox P. Pruden, Worthington, to be secretary to the highway director, succeeding H. E. Foreman, Columbus.

Tacoma Man Named

Governor Cooper officially announced the selection by Director of Agriculture Perry L. Green of Oscar J. Bailey, 54, Tacoma, as chief of the state division of dairy and foods. This position has been vacant for some time.

Hudden has had 20 years' experience in highway construction and maintenance and other similar enterprises. For the last nine years he was highway engineer of Lake county.

Galliher spent five years in municipal engineering, was surveyor of Wood county seven years, was a division engineer in the highway department two years and for five years was deputy surveyor of Lucas county.

Brown served two terms as surveyor of Williams county, was construction engineer on the Philo power plant, near Zanesville two years and has been resident engineer in Jefferson county for the state highway department since 1924.

Former Business Man

Shusbaugh for many years was a member of a firm which operated a grain elevator and supply house at Newark. In recent years, he sold autos, trucks and tires.

Pruden, a native of Shelby county, formerly was a clerk in the highway department and was auditor of disbursements in the state auditor's department. Since 1925, he has been chief accountant in the bureau of motor vehicles, in the secretary of state's department.

Bailey has lived on a farm nearly all his life. He is a breeder of pure-bred Jersey cattle. His father, the late L. P. Bailey, was one of the pioneer Jersey breeders of Ohio. Bailey has been a member of the Belmont County Farm bureau since its organization and was president of the bureau four years.

Besides being a member of the Belmont county fair board Bailey is an active member of the Ohio State grange, a member of the board of directors, Ohio Farm Bureau federation, vice president of the Ohio Farm bureau corporation, and is overseer of the Pomona grange. He is a member of the Barnesville rotary club.

DIRTY MONEY PERIOD WILL BEGIN APRIL 1

No More New Paper of Present Size Will Be Issued After That Date

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 — The United States is "in for" a dirty money period of three months beginning about April 1.

The treasury announced today that no more new paper of the present size would be issued after April 1, as the government prepares to withdraw the old greenbacks and to replace them with the new small-sized currency now in the course of manufacture.

The new money will be about one-third smaller than that in circulation today. Manufacture of the present paper will cease about six weeks prior to the termination of shipments of this size from Washington to the federal reserve banks.

On July 1 the abbreviated greenbacks will reach the public through the reserve banks, the government's agency for distribution, according to the plan of Secretary Mellon.

Initial issues of the small currency, in years to come, will become of considerable value to collectors, in the opinion of officials. It was anticipated that many of the first bills going into the market would be "hoarded" by those who have souvenir proclivities.

LOCAL CAGERS LOSE MANSFIELD CONTEST

Vernon Heights Freshmen Fall Before Heavier Team, 27-21

Vernon Heights freshman basketball team journeyed to Mansfield last night in an attempt to duplicate Harding high's feat of carrying off victory over a larger and faster team, but failed to the tune of a 27 to 21 score.

Completely outclassed in size, the Vernon cagers could not fathom the Mansfield junior high team's passing attack and were on the short end of 6 to 0 score at the end of the first quarter.

The Marion five looked better in the second period, outscoring the winners, eight to five, making the game 14 all at half time. Mansfield continued its quick working offense all through the second half and was never headed once the lead was captured. Vernon resorted to many long shots in the last part of the game but missed practically all of them.

Kirkpatrick Mansfield guard, led both teams with four field goals and two fouls. The victors held Reimer, Vernon scoring ace, to nine points.

The score:
